ATTENTION: Connecticut Home Health Agencies

Connecticut law does not permit home health agency nurses to pre-pour medications for residents of Residential Care Homes (RCHs). Under state regulations, medication administration in an RCH must be the direct application of the medication by the person administering it.

Only licensed nurses or staff who have successfully completed phase 1 and Phase 2 of the medication administration training through CT-Train may administer medications in these settings.

For reference please see: Regs. Conn. State Agencies §19-13-D6, CGS §19a-495a.

Agencies must ensure full compliance with these requirements.
